A conference has been arranged for

One plan under consideration is to have the supervisor that is to be ap-pointed at the expense of the state for the town of Brooklyn also to do the supervising in Killingly, such an or-rangement being considered as feasible and possible of being made operative at less expense to this town, which is not eligible to receive free supervision, than would likely be incurred under any other method which would produce equally good results. The sub-committee of the board has not been empowered, however, to do more than investigate. They will report their findings to the committee for acployes deem fair is indeed a decision of serious consequence. When the federal government once undertakes the regulation of wages, of discriminating between the employes of various enterprises and guaranteeing a certain rate of wage to a certain class of employe, it is very evident that the government has undertaken a proposition that it cannot successfully negotiate. And yet, on the other hand, if the government is to decide at what rate a railroad is to sell transportation, the only commodity it has to sell, with transportation rate to a large extent determining the rate of wage, it is with transportation rate to a large extent determining the rate of wage, it is also evident that the employes are within their rights in demanding that their wage be taken into consideration in determining the rate. But once establish this principle, and other big enterprises for which government regulation is demanded, will put up the same proposition, as, for example, the employes of the teel trust, or the tobacco trust, or the sugar trust, or any of the other big interests. If government control extends, as it must in the end, to control of prices, then the argument will be that such control must include consideration of the rate of include consideration of the rate of wage.
